LOS ANGELES - Dr. Sadie Allison, "America's Pleasure Coach," made an appearance on KROQ's "The Kevin & Bean Show" at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Allison discussed her favorite ways to enhance Valentine's Day and gave general advice on sex, pleasure and passion. The show focused on ways couples can improve their relationships, including the use of Screaming O vibrating rings, her favorite "sexcessory."

"Since approximately 70 percent of women cannot achieve orgasm through intercourse alone, the Screaming O is the perfect orgasm-builder solution," she said. "A couples-friendly sensual aid, it offers pleasure to both men and women."

Allison also promoted her new book, Ride 'Em Cowgirl: Sex Position Secrets for Better Bucking. To encourage couples to experiment, Allison informed listeners that she will be giving away free Screaming O rings to those who purchase her book at TickleKitty.com after listening to the show.

"There is still so much that people want to learn about sexual pleasure, but [they] don't know where to turn," she said. "They find when they reach for my how-to sex-help books [that] more than just the light bulb turns on!"

Allison has written several other successful books, including Tickle Your Fancy, Toygasms! and Tickle His Pickle, all of which have become national best-sellers, with combined sales totaling over 1 million copies sold.

The Screaming O recently won its second award from Women's Health, a mainstream fitness magazine.
